*“Prepare to Engage” centers on the maid of honor,
Melanie Trumbull.
She planned the entire wedding
for her sister. But now she's been thrown for a loop.*

*Her world is completely turned upside-down
when she meets
free-spirited piano player, Murphy
Mason,
during the Cocktail Hour*

*Opposites attract.
Sparks fly.
Romance ensues.
Careers hang in the balance.
Love conquers all.*

Well, ...almost all.

Melanie Trumbull
Corporate Divorce Attorney

Melanie is on the fast track to making partner at a prestigious law firm. She wants to go beyond the traditional financial prenuptial agreement, adding a set of civility clauses. "An Emotional Prenup".

Murphy Mason
Musician

His instrument of choice is the guitar, but he can play almost anything. This dreamy musician will prove to be a catalyst for Melanie and her Emo Prenup concept. Meanwhile, Melanie forces Murphy to confront his true feelings regarding success and fame.

Jack Trumbull
The Mayor

Melanie and Sandy's father is a winner. Mayor of the town for thirty years. Approaching retirement age, but not quite ready to step down yet. Jack's wife Betty wants to leave the political life behind. This conflict between them puts their marriage in jeopardy.

Betty Trumbull
The Mayor's Wife

*Refined style that evokes wealth and power. Never gaudy.
Mother to Melanie and Sandy. Married to Jack for 27 years.
Has had enough of being the great woman behind the great man.*

Gil Molitor
Partner at Larkin, Molitor, Banks, and Schmidt

*Gil Molitor is a name partner at a powerful law firm.
Jack's lifelong friend and golf buddy. Melanie's mentor.

The Emotional Prenup

In my experience as a couples therapist, dividing chores fairly isn't the secret to a successful marriage. Fighting fairly is.

My Millennial Divorce

I Got a Prenup—but It Wasn't to Protect My Money

"My fiancée and I agreed to a prenup stating that before divorcing, we'll attend at least as many therapy sessions as the number of years we've been together." Roll your eyes if you want, but—as part of Glamour.com's weeklong series on modern divorce—writer Hannah Hickok explains why emotional protection is something increasingly important to millennials.

"Prepare to Engage" carries a progressive message about modern divorce. We're among a rising number of millennials with this mind-set. The trend of emotional prenup is reflected among young Hollywood couples.
